

MANY THANKS TO ALL OUR CONTRIBUTORS!

VIRTUALLY A TOUR!

Just to let you know that my pop-up gallery 'Ted Coney's Family Portraits' has just opened for the seventh season and it would be lovely if you would come and visit. I usually open on Sunday afternoons but if you want to come at another time I will try and fit you in. Please book from my website or by phone. If you have been before, I can certainly do you a different tour from last time.

Just to wet your appetite (!), I have created a virtual tour on the theme of 'Simultaneity' which you can view from my website in the comfort of your own home. It will cost you 99p but think of it as contributing to my pension fund. You can do things on film, which are difficult to do live. In the Virtual Tour I fly back in time in my Morris Minor to 1930s Hollywoodland.

This month (June) I've also been featured in the free 'Cambridge' magazine in a three page special – you might like to check it out.

The College also gets a mention in my introduction to the Open Studios booklet which is also out at the moment.
